PREFACE

This 1983 edition reports the results of the annual survey of schools of nursing conducted on October 15, 1982.

This edition consists of two sections, thus continuing the expanded format introduced three years ago. The first section lists, as has been done in previous editions, all state-approved nursing programs preparing students for RN licensure. The second section lists baccalaureate programs that offer a major in nursing to RNs previously graduated from associate degree or diploma nursing programs. This section, appearing in the last three years' editions, has already proved useful to health planners, nursing administrators, nursing educators, other RNs, career guidance counselors, and other interested publics who need to know the number and location of programs offering the BSN degree to RNs, and who need to know the number and distribution of RNs prepared at the baccalaureate level.

A new feature has been added this year which will prove invaluable to users of this directory. The telephone number of almost all nursing schools has been added. This will be especially practical for individuals who need to communicate directly with nursing schools anywhere in the country.

All 1,422 schools that conducted 1,455 programs in nursing on October 15, 1982, are included in this edition. Lists of schools of nursing in the United States are maintained by the National League for Nursing and are updated each year from questionnaires sent to the boards of nursing of the states and other jurisdictions of the United States. In addition to providing updates in names and addresses, the state boards have indicated those programs that are new or were discontinued between October 16, 1981, and October 15, 1982, inclusively. Information from those programs that plan to discontinue within the next few years has come either from the respective state board or from the school.

Although a program must be approved by its state board to be listed in the first section of this directory, there may be certain conditions attached to the approval. If this is so for an individual school, the reason will usually be coded in the column identified as "Other Than Full State Board Approval." Codes for identifying these reasons will be found on page 2, "Key to Abbreviations and Symbols."

The factual and statistical data listed for each school and aggregated in the tables in the appendix are obtained from an annual survey of schools of nursing in the United States and its outlying areas, which is conducted by means of a questionnaire mailed to all schools in October of each year. The schools invariably demonstrate splendid cooperation, and for many years reporting of the critical data has been 100 percent complete. The accreditation status of schools as of January 1, 1983, was provided by the Division of Accreditation Services of the National League for Nursing, the national accrediting agency.

Program listings in section one are complete for diploma, associate degree, and baccalaureate programs of nursing. Graduates of these three types of basic nursing education programs may have differences in preparation, but all are eligible to write the examination that leads to licensure as a registered nurse. (Information on schools preparing for licensure as practical or vocational nurses is issued in a separate publication.) Further information on abbreviations and symbols used in conjunction with the listings may be found on page 2. To conserve space, such phrases as "School of Nursing," "Department of Nursing," or "College of Nursing" have been omitted except where they are necessary for proper identification. A few schools have requested that the statistical information provided in the questionnaire not be listed in the directory. This request has been honored in the school listings, although the statistical information has been included in the summary tables, which do not identify individual schools.

The first section of this edition also contains complete information about the earliest year of approval by state boards of nursing for registered nurse programs. In order to simplify the presentation, no distinction has been made between intitial, provisional, conditional, or full state board approval. This information, initially requested by the National Council of State Boards of Nursing, is now complete for every state except Iowa.

The second section of this edition contains information on schools offering programs leading to the baccalaureate degree in nursing to RNs previously graduated from associate degree and diploma nursing programs. Two kinds of baccalaureate nursing programs are listed in this section. First, there are generic programs that admit RNs as well as other students; second, there are programs designed exclusively for RNs.

The latter programs are popularly known as "BRN programs" since they admit RNs only, and are identified in the school listings by the entry "RNs Only" coded in the column "Type of Student." State approval of BRN programs is not usually mandated by law, since these programs are restricted to students who have already been licensed by the state. For this reason, programs need not be approved by state boards of nursing in order to be listed in this section.

The list of generic baccalaureate nursing programs that admit RNs is complete. In contrast, the list of BRN programs is probably not complete for the following reasons: first, only schools that reported at least one RN enrollment are included; second, lacking mandatory state board approval, there has been no central source to identify all such programs.

NLN has sought to create such a central source for several years. First, approximately 1,200 colleges and universities were surveyed in 1973 in order to determine the existence of baccalaureate programs in nursing for RNs. In addition, nursing education consultants of NLN have regularly provided information about new BRN programs. More recently, state boards of nursing have been requested to add to the BRN list annually. We are striving for BRN lists that are exhaustive, but are unable to give assurance that this goal has been reached.

As of October 15, 1982, 508 baccalaureate schools were known to be conducting nursing programs in which RNs were enrolled. Of this total, 363 were generic baccalaureate programs and 145 were baccalaureate programs admitting RNs only. There were 35,687 RNs enrolled in baccalaureate nursing programs on October 15, 1982—20,933 in generic programs and 14,754 in BRN programs. During the 1981-82 academic year, 9,357 RNs were awarded the baccalaureate degree in nursing—5,921 from generic programs and 3,436 from BRN programs. A table summarizing these figures for each state may be found at the end of this directory.

Baccalaureate nursing programs admitting RNs often provide evening and weekend classes so that RN students may continue their nursing employment on a full-time or part-time basis. Specific course arrangements are not shown in this directory, but may be obtained by corresponding with the individual school.

Basic statistical tables by state and type of program appear at the end of the listing and pertain to both sections of this edition. Other tables, which have been included in earlier editions of this directory, are available in the NLN Nursing Data Book. This latter publication, published annually, contains an expanded data base of the statistics on nursing education.

A more detailed analysis of the statistics presented herein will appear in Nursing and Health Care, the official journal of the National League for Nursing.

A listing of state boards of nursing and their executive secretaries is also included in the back of this directory.

Those who compiled this book and those who use the information contained in it are deeply indebted to the contributors who make the publication possible. The cooperation of the many schools has been exceptional for many years and has played an important role in assuring the completeness and accuracy of data on a continuing basis. A special word of thanks is also due to the state boards of nursing, which, almost without exception, have cooperated at every stage.

PREFACE

This 1983 edition reports the results of the annual survey of schools of nursing conducted on October 15, 1982.

This edition consists of two sections, thus continuing the expanded format introduced three years ago. The first section lists, as has been done in previous editions, all state-approved nursing programs preparing students for RN licensure. The second section lists baccalaureate programs that offer a major in nursing to RNs previously graduated from associate degree or diploma nursing programs. This section, appearing in the last three years' editions, has already proved useful to health planners, nursing administrators, nursing educators, other RNs, career guidance counselors, and other interested publics who need to know the number and location of programs offering the BSN degree to RNs, and who need to know the number and distribution of RNs prepared at the baccalaureate level.

A new feature has been added this year which will prove invaluable to users of this directory. The telephone number of almost all nursing schools has been added. This will be especially practical for individuals who need to communicate directly with nursing schools anywhere in the country.

All 1,422 schools that conducted 1,455 programs in nursing on October 15, 1982, are included in this edition. Lists of schools of nursing in the United States are maintained by the National League for Nursing and are updated each year from questionnaires sent to the boards of nursing of the states and other jurisdictions of the United States. In addition to providing updates in names and addresses, the state boards have indicated those programs that are new or were discontinued between October 16, 1981, and October 15, 1982, inclusively. Information from those programs that plan to discontinue within the next few years has come either from the respective state board or from the school.

Although a program must be approved by its state board to be listed in the first section of this directory, there may be certain conditions attached to the approval. If this is so for an individual school, the reason will usually be coded in the column identified as "Other Than Full State Board Approval." Codes for identifying these reasons will be found on page 2, "Key to Abbreviations and Symbols."

The factual and statistical data listed for each school and aggregated in the tables in the appendix are obtained from an annual survey of schools of nursing in the United States and its outlying areas, which is conducted by means of a questionnaire mailed to all schools in October of each year. The schools invariably demonstrate splendid cooperation, and for many years reporting of the critical data has been 100 percent complete. The accreditation status of schools as of January 1, 1983, was provided by the Division of Accreditation Services of the National League for Nursing, the national accrediting agency.

Program listings in section one are complete for diploma, associate degree, and baccalaureate programs of nursing. Graduates of these three types of basic nursing education programs may have differences in preparation, but all are eligible to write the examination that leads to licensure as a registered nurse. (Information on schools preparing for licensure as practical or vocational nurses is issued in a separate publication.) Further information on abbreviations and symbols used in conjunction with the listings may be found on page 2. To conserve space, such phrases as "School of Nursing," "Department of Nursing," or "College of Nursing" have been omitted except where they are necessary for proper identification. A few schools have requested that the statistical information provided in the questionnaire not be listed in the directory. This request has been honored in the school listings, although the statistical information has been included in the summary tables, which do not identify individual schools.

The first section of this edition also contains complete information about the earliest year of approval by state boards of nursing for registered nurse programs. In order to simplify the presentation, no distinction has been made between intitial, provisional, conditional, or full state board approval. This information, initially requested by the National Council of State Boards of Nursing, is now complete for every state except Iowa.

The second section of this edition contains information on schools offering programs leading to the baccalaureate degree in nursing to RNs previously graduated from associate degree and diploma nursing programs. Two kinds of baccalaureate nursing programs are listed in this section. First, there are generic programs that admit RNs as well as other students; second, there are programs designed exclusively for RNs.

The latter programs are popularly known as "BRN programs," since they admit RNs only, and are identified in the school listings by the entry "RNs Only" coded in the column "Type of Student." State approval of BRN programs is not usually mandated by law, since these programs are restricted to students who have already been licensed by the state. For this reason, programs need not be approved by state boards of nursing in order to be listed in this section.

The list of generic baccalaureate nursing programs that admit RNs is complete. In contrast, the list of BRN programs is probably not complete for the following reasons: first, only schools that reported at least one RN enrollment are included; second, lacking mandatory state board approval, there has been no central source to identify all such programs.

NLN has sought to create such a central source for several years. First, approximately 1,200 colleges and universities were surveyed in 1973 in order to determine the existence of baccalaureate programs in nursing for RNs. In addition, nursing education consultants of NLN have regularly provided information about new BRN programs. More recently, state boards of nursing have been requested to add to the BRN list annually. We are striving for BRN lists that are exhaustive, but are unable to give assurance that this goal has been reached.

As of October 15, 1982, 508 baccalaureate schools were known to be conducting nursing programs in which RNs were enrolled. Of this total, 363 were generic baccalaureate programs and 145 were baccalaureate programs admitting RNs only. There were 35,687 RNs enrolled in baccalaureate nursing programs on October 15, 1982—20,933 in generic programs and 14,754 in BRN programs. During the 1981-82 academic year, 9,357 RNs were awarded the baccalaureate degree in nursing—5,921 from generic programs and 3,436 from BRN programs. A table summarizing these figures for each state may be found at the end of this directory.

Baccalaureate nursing programs admitting RNs often provide evening and weekend classes so that RN students may continue their nursing employment on a full-time or part-time basis. Specific course arrangements are not shown in this directory, but may be obtained by corresponding with the individual school.

Basic statistical tables by state and type of program appear at the end of the listing and pertain to both sections of this edition. Other tables, which have been included in earlier editions of this directory, are available in the NLN Nursing Data Book. This latter publication, published annually, contains an expanded data base of the statistics on nursing education.

A more detailed analysis of the statistics presented herein will appear in Nursing and Health Care, the official journal of the National League for Nursing.

A listing of state boards of nursing and their executive secretaries is also included in the back of this directory.

Those who compiled this book and those who use the information contained in it are deeply indebted to the contributors who make the publication possible. The cooperation of the many schools has been exceptional for many years and has played an important role in assuring the completeness and accuracy of data on a continuing basis. A special word of thanks is also due to the state boards of nursing, which, almost without exception, have cooperated at every stage.
